ILLEGAL REPAIR SHOP LOCKED DOWN

Columbus – The Ohio Board of Motor Vehicle Collision Repair Registration, in conjunction with the Ohio Attorney General Richard Cordray's Office, the Franklin County Common Pleas Court and the Franklin County Sheriff's Department, carried out a court order Thursday to lock down an illegal auto repair facility.

An injunction was granted against Chris Wood, owner of Wood's Auto Body & Collision in Columbus for failing to register with the Board. When Mr. Wood failed to meet the registration requirements after the injunction, the Board filed a "Contempt of Court" complaint. The Court gave Mr. Wood a deadline to become compliant with the Board and pay back fees to 2003. When the deadline passed without compliance, the Board was granted a "Lock-down" order. The business will remain locked down until Mr. Wood gets registered.

Michael Greene, Executive Director of the agency, indicated, "Enforcement efforts against illegal repair facilities increased in 2007 and 2008, and the trend will continue. It is not the Board's intention to close down repair shops, but rather bring them into compliance with state and federal regulations." He added, "It's a consumer issue, and I would suggest everyone visit our website at www.collisionboard.ohio.gov prior to selecting a repair facility. Consumers can check for registered shops at our e-licensing verification link, and learn the rights of a motorist when seeking auto repairs."

The Ohio Board of Motor Vehicle Collision Repair Registration was created in 1999 to regulate the collision repair industry and provide consumer protection. The Board is entirely funded by registration fees from collision shops, auto glass businesses, paintless dent repair companies and airbag replacement units throughout Ohio. The Board is made up of five collision repair shop owners, one mechanical repair shop owner, and one person to represent the public, who has no financial interest in the auto repair industry.
